Key Exclusions

• Accidents under influence of alcohol, narcotics, or drugs. • Self-inflicted injuries, suicide, or attempted suicide. • Adventure/hazardous sports (mountaineering, skydiving) unless specifically endorsed. • War, invasion, civil commotion, nuclear/biological events. • Pre-existing physical defects or infirmities. • Pregnancy, childbirth, or related complications. • Accidents during criminal or unlawful acts.

Tax Benefits

• Personal accident insurance premiums do NOT qualify under Section 80C or 80D. • However, the policy is an essential financial planning tool — the accident benefit supplements health insurance (which only covers treatment costs, not income loss). • TTD benefit replaces lost income during recovery, making it critical for self-employed and business owners who have no employer sick-pay provision.

Who Should Buy

- Self-employed individuals and business owners — no employer income protection during disability.
- Salaried employees whose EPF/ESIC does not fully cover accidental disability.
- Two-wheeler or four-wheeler drivers with high daily road exposure.
- Construction, manufacturing, or field-work professionals (Class 2–3).
- Young earners with home loans — CSI should cover outstanding loan amount.
- Recommended CSI: minimum 5× annual income to cover disability-related income loss.
